LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

CITY NOTES.

—High water at Rondout Light House today at 10 A. M. and 9:30 P. M.

—Yesterday 38 canal boats laden with 4,788 tons of coal reached tide water at Edgewater through the Delaware & Hudson canal.

—Experienced river boatmen, who are weather-wise prophets, predict an early closing of the river and a long, severe winter.

—The tidal wave of prosperity has set in with such a rush since the panic, that a young lawyer in the lower part of the city has been compelled to lay in a new safe.

—Enoch Carter has put up a bill board on the corner of Union street and Hasbrouck avenue; and it is as big as the side of a Dutch barn.

—Decatur, uptown, has a couple of European pheasants for sale, hanging in front of his market. The tail plumes are very beautiful, and are the delight of all the ladies, who say, "Oh, my! wouldn't they be nice in my new hat?"

—Mr. William B. Fitch, whose barn, with all his horses, carriages, &c., was destroyed by fire on Sunday night, nearly two weeks since, now has a fine team of grays and an elegant new carriage to replace the family establishment so unfortunately lost.

—A New Political Platform.

We hear it is proposed to run a candidate for Supervisor in the Town of Kingston next spring on the platform of opposition to raising the interest on the town bonds issued to the railroad. If carried out it will be for the purpose of testing the question, under Judge Grover's decision, whether the railroad should not be first looked to for the interest.

—Sale of Lindenwald.

This famous estate at Kinderhook, the residence of the late ex-President Martin Van Buren, and recently owned by George Wilder, Esq., was purchased by James Van Alstyne and John Van Buren (a namesake of the late Hon. John Van Buren, son of the President) for the sum of $32,000, which includes furniture, horses, carriages and the farm and garden now on the premises. The owner is joining the mansion, comprising about 225 acres, was also included in the purchase.

—A Wall.

So much of the traveling public as have occasion to wait for the Hudson River trains in Peekskill complain that the station house there is a filthy, ill-ventilated hole. As far as the windows of glass in the doors and windows are broken the railroad people substitute boards and shingles. The whole concern would elicit from Joe Gargery his renowned opinion of an old London inn; "I wouldn't care a pig in it myself; that is if I wanted him to fatten on my nose and eat with a meller favor on his chin."

—The Death of Captain Robb.

Bryan Kavanagh desires us to state that Captain Robb, whose death we noted recently, did not obtain any liquor at his (Kavanagh's) saloon in Wilbur. He bought some tobacco and paid for two glasses of beer for other parties, but Kavanagh positively refused to sell him any liquor for himself. This fact is attested by several witnesses.

—Stone Ridge Items.

A fashionable wedding took place Tuesday at the residence of Mr. D. L. Wing, 32 Dove street. The happy couple were Miss Jennie Wing, niece of Mr. D. L. Wing, and Mr. J. B. Hines of Stockton, California. Rev. Dr. Bridgman performed the ceremony, in the presence of a large number of friends.

The elaborate toilettes and elegant presents made the event one of great interest and long to be remembered by those present.

The bridegroom is a prominent lawyer of Stockton, and the happy bride will be transplanted to the best circles of society on the Pacific coast.

—Fashionable Wedding.

From the Albany Argus of Thursday we clip the following notice of a fashionable wedding in that city, on Tuesday, because Mr. D. L. Wing has many acquaintances in this city, and Rev. Dr. Bridgman also, he having been a schoolboy in Rondout, and many of his schoolmates not recognize in the Rev. Dr. the Clergy of old days.

—$1,000 Worth of Dry Goods Stolen.

There was a heavy robbery at Wadsworth Tuesday night. A large store in the village, called "The New Store," was entered by some unknown means, and goods to the amount of $1,000 were taken. There were fourteen cases of alpaca, several large cases of ribbons, etc., taken. The robbery was discovered Wednesday morning, when it was found that the robbers had taken from the goods stolen all the marks by which they could be identified, and left them behind in the store. The name of the firm robbed have been unable to ascertain. They have, we believe, recently started the store, and have been, it is said, doing a good business.

This morning news started out in pursuit of the robbers and we learn that the latter were traced as far as the toll-gate this side of the Powder Mills on the South Plank Road coming towards Newburgh. There were three of them and they had two large bundles under their arms. They passed through the toll-gate allied to at about six or seven o'clock this morning.—Newburgh Journal.

—Music Hall To-night.

McGill & Strong's "Mirror of Ireland," receding eighty-five beautiful scenes, that romantic country will be set upon the stage in Music Hall to-night. The Mirror represents landscapes and views of historic localities in all the greater cities and towns of Ireland, a tour through the lakes of Killarney, with sketches of Irish characters. The panorama is illustrated by Mr. William McGill, who knows whereof he speaks, for "he's been there."

Aside from all this the audience will be entertained all the evening by the illustration of the lake and mists of an English top among the lads and fellows of Ireland, the characters being personated by Irish actors and gentlemen, among them Bryan O'Leary (not he who had no breeches to wear), a comedian whose songs, dances and delineations are funny in the extreme; Sadie McGill, as vivacious a comedienne as she is a handsome woman, with songs, dances and pert speeches. Miss O'Leary, an excellent soprano, who sings many familiar Irish songs in an extremely attractive manner, and Mr. Dawson, who very cleverly represents an English swell. Altogether the entertainment is a very pleasing one, as many of our citizens know from attending it when last in this city, some two years since.

ALONG THE RIVER.

The receipts of the Citizens' steamboat line of Troy last month were $40,000. A dividend of 4 per cent. has been declared.

A young man named William Clark left the Clarendon Hotel, Albany, Saturday last, owing the proprietor $23. He has not been heard of since, and all he left behind was a bundle of old clothes. This is, evidently, another case of a runaway larcony.

Two Trojan thieves attempted to make off with a show case from in front of the store of T. T. Parkman, on Monday evening, while he was at supper. The case contained $150 worth of jewelry. The thieves were, however, detected, dropped the case, and made their escape.

Ex-Alderman C. C. Malcher of Hudson and Captain George Powers for years have had a strife as to which of them should have the first sleigh ride every year, and the ex-Alderman usually gets ahead of the Captain, as he did on Wednesday morning. The sleigh, he said, was a sleigh ride with his horse and cutter.

A team attached to a wagon laden with apples and other produce, frightened about Wednesday on Clinton avenue in Albany. The establishment belonged to J. P. Crounse, of Guilfordland. Near Swan street one of the horses struck a tree and so injured himself that he died in about twenty minutes. The wagon was also badly broken and the driver injured.

Frederick Rollwagen, of New York, told to very little purpose, a few months ago, his three sons think, for he left his one or two million dollars in such a way that the low servant girl he had married had to get the money from the income on the property, while not a dollar's worth of the real estate can be sold until the youngest grandson is dead. The boys have asked the Surrogate Court to say that the old man was crazy when he made the will.

The Troy Press says: Monday afternoon, when one of Lloyd & Murray's barges arrived from New York, a canal boat was fast to the dock and the barge could not land. Mr. Murray requested the captain to move out of the way and he refused. Mr. Murray then proceeded to loosen the ropes, when the captain struck him a blow that felled him. A warrant was obtained and placed in the hands of court Curran, but when he arrived at the dock the man was gone. He followed him to Albany, but when the officer arrived there the boat had passed and the rascal escaped.

—An Interesting Ulster County LAW SUIT.

"She Loved Not Wisely but Too Well," Damages Ten Thousand Dollars!

In that romantic region of the county where the mountains raise their heads above the clouds in that part of Woodstock known by the name of the hamlet of Bearsville, lives a young lady who for the past few years has had the reputation of being the handsomest woman in that part of the county. She is a dark brunette, of medium stature, with lustrous black eyes, hair as dark as a starless night, aristocratic hands and feet, and besides is intelligent, well educated, and has a most fascinating address. Being of good family, and with connections reaching far above the county, quite naturally she was acknowledged the belle of the place, and scores of young men from different parts of the country came and knelt at the shrine of beauty, trying their hearts and fortunes at her feet. This lady was no coquette; her heart was too warm and pure for mercenary motives, and besides she had long before placed her affections on one who had been her companion almost since childhood's days. They had been playmates, and had grown up together, beneath the shadows of those old mountains, and their grim peaks seemed to look down and approve their love. Time passed on until in July, 1872, when a formal engagement was made, and money was used with lavish hand to make the wedding the most brilliant and imposing ever known in Ulster county. Friends and relatives were invited, while a minister from a foreign city was engaged at great expense to perform the ceremony. During these months of preparation the young man being considered by the parents almost a member of the family, he was allowed to be very intimate in the family. But alas, alas, for human frailty, man's fickleness and race; when the wedding day came the youth refused to ratify the engagement. We need not dwell upon the harrowing scene that took place; the tears and pleading of the bride; the anger of the girl's parents, and the consternation of her friends. The world knows this better than pen can describe it. Even then the girl's misery was not complete. It seemed that she must be made to drink to the very dregs the cup of bitterness, for

"She loved not wisely but too well."

Her delicate condition soon became known. This wretch in the shape of a human being, had not only won her affection, but under the garb and guise of a well-favored lover, had also robbed her of her virtue. For a time the excitement was great in the land of Bearsville, and it was thought the people would take the law in their own hands and punish this ruthless destroyer as he deserved to be punished. Better counsel finally prevailed, a lawyer was consulted, and it was thought best to probe the young man through his pocket-book and by way of damages punish him as he should be, by imprisonment.

Under a precept was issued out of the Supreme Court in the name of Sarah F. Donnelly, et al. against the youth, in which the injured lady placed her damages at the neat little sum of ten thousand dollars!

This case, which is one for a breach of promise of marriage, will be tried at one of the Ulster County Courts, and will no doubt be a most instructive case to our young men, had not exceedingly interesting, owing to the married man's strange case. It may seem, the case was born slightly because of the continual weeping of the mother after the desertion of her lover. This pledge of affection, a bright, handsome little girl, will be brought into court, and if the sight of that unfortunate wail does not melt the hearts of a few of our countrymen, then we will forever lose faith in the better nature of man. The attorneys in case are Van Alstyne & Van Alstyne, for the plaintiff, and T. R. F. L. Westbrook for the defendant.

—Beware of Them.

Swindlers of both sexes are said to be passing their time in various towns in this vicinity, collecting money under pretence of the subscription being in aid of the sufferers from the fire in Memphis and Shreveport.—Don't give a stranger for a cent, unless it is a swindler or a scoundrel with a club.

CITY NOTES.

High water at Rondout Light House today at 10 A. M. and 9:30 P. M.

Yesterday 38 canal boats laden with 4,788 tons of coal reached tide water at Eddyville through the Delaware & Hudson canal.

Experienced river boatmen, who are waterwise prophets, predict an early closing of the river and a long, severe winter.

The tidal wave of prosperity has set in along the river, and the tide is running in the lower part of the city has been compelled to lay in a new sea.

Enoch Carter has put up a bill board on the corner of Union street and Hasbrouck avenue, and it's as big as the side of a Dutch barn.

Decorative, up town, has a couple of European pheasants for sale, hanging in front of his market. The tail plumes are very beautiful, and are the delight of all the ladies, who say, "Oh, my! wouldn't they be nice in my new hat?"

Mr. William B. Fitch, whose barn, with all his horses, carriages, &c., was destroyed by fire on Sunday night, is nearly two weeks since, now has a fine team of grays and an elegant new harness to replace the family establishment so unfortunately lost.

A New Political Platform.

We hear it is proposed to run a candidate for Supervisor in the town of Kingston next spring on the platform of opposing raising the interest on the town bonds issued to the railroad. If carried out it will be for the purpose of testing the question, under Judge Grover's decision, whether the railroad should not be first looked to for the interest.

Sale of Lindenwald.

This famous estate at Kinderhook, the residence of the late ex-President Martin Van Buren, and recently owned by George Wilder, Esq., was purchased by James Van Alstyne and John Van Buren (a namesake of the late Hon. John Van Buren, son of the President) for the sum of $32,000, which includes furniture, horses, carriages and other personal property now on the premises. The farm adjoining the mansion, comprising about 225 acres, was also included in the purchase. Register.

A Wall.

So much of the traveling public has been occasion to wait for the Hudson River trains in Peekskill complain that the station house there is a dirty, ill-ventilated hole. As far as the station is concerned, the station is a disgrace to the railroad. The whole concern would elicit from Joe Gargery his recorded opinion of an old London inn; "I wouldn't keep a pig in it myself; that is if I wanted him to fatten up some and eat with a million favor to him."

The Death of Captain Robb.

Bryan Kavanaugh desires us to state that Captain Robb, whose death we noted yesterday, did not obtain any liquor at his (Kavanaugh's) saloon in Wilbur. He bought some tobacco and paid for two glasses of beer for other parties, but Kavanaugh positively refused to sell him any liquor for himself. This fact is attested by several witnesses.

Stone Ridge Items.

Revival meetings are being held in the M. E. Church at Kripplish on the Stone Ridge, charge H. C. Earle pastor. Already about twenty-five have professed conversion.

A donation for the pastor of the M. E. Church on the 19th, if the weather permits.

It is quite sickly at Stone Ridge and vicinity. There are several cases of typhoid fever.

Rev. H. C. Earle attended two funerals on Thursday.

Fashionable Wedding.

From the Albany Argus of Thursday we clip the following notice of a fashionable wedding in that city, on Tuesday, because Mr. D. L. Wing has many acquaintances in this city, and Rev. Dr. Bridgman, also, having been a schoolboy in Rondout, and many of his schoolmates may not recognize in the Rev. Dr. the Charley of our days.

A fashionable wedding took place Tuesday at the residence of Mr. D. L. Wing, 32 Dove street. The happy couple were Miss Jennie Wing, niece of Mr. D. L. Wing, and Mr. J. B. Hines of Stockton, California. Rev. Dr. Bridgman performed the ceremony, in the presence of a large number of friends.

The elaborate toilettes and elegant presents made the event one of great prominence and long to be remembered by those present.

The bridegroom is a prominent lawyer of Stockton, and the happy bride was transported to the best circles of society on the Pacific coast.

$1,000 Worth of Dry Goods Stolen.

There was a heavy robbery at Walden Tuesday night. A large store in the village called "The New Store," was entered by some unknown means, and goods to the amount of $1,000 stolen therefrom. There were fourteen pieces of alpaca, several large pieces of silk ribbons, etc., taken. The robbery was discovered Wednesday morning, when it was found that the robbers had taken from the goods stolen all the money which they could be identified, and left them behind in the store. The name of the firm robbed we have been unable to ascertain. They have, we believe, recently started the store, and have been, it is said, doing a good business.

This morning men started out in pursuit of the robbers and were successful. The robbers were traced as far as the tollgate this side of the Powder Mills on the South Plank Road, where they were taken. There were three of them and they had two large bundles under their arms. They passed through the tollgate at about six or seven o'clock this morning. Newburgh Journal.

Music Hall To-night.

McGill & Strong's "Mirror of Ireland," reflecting eighty-five beautiful scenes of that romantic country, will be set upon the stage in Music Hall to-night. The Mirror represents landscapes and views of historic localities in all the greater cities and towns of Ireland, a tour through the lakes of Killarney, with sketches of Irish characters. The panorama is illustrated by the most descriptive descriptive lecture by Mr. William McGil, who knows whereof he speaks, for "he's been there."

Aside from all this the audience will be entertained all through the evening by an illustration of the haps and mishaps of an English fox among the lads and lasses of Ireland, a tour through the lakes of Killarney, with sketches of Irish characters. The panorama is illustrated by the most descriptive descriptive lecture by Mr. William McGil, who knows whereof he speaks, for "he's been there."

ALONG THE RIVER.

The receipts of the Citizens' steamboat line of Troy last month were $40,000. A dividend of 4 per cent. has been declared.

A young man named William Clark left the Clarendon Hotel, Albany, Saturday last, owing the proprietor $23. He has not been heard of since, and all he left behind was a bundle of old clothes. This is, evidently, another case of constructive larceny.

Two Trojan thieves attempted to make off with a show case from in front of the store of T. P. Parkman, on Monday evening, while he was at supper. The case contained $150 worth of jewelry. The thieves were, however, detected, dropped the case, and made their escape.

Ex-Alderman C. C. Malcher of Hudson and Captain George Powers for years have had a strife as to which of them should have the first sleigh ride every year, and the ex-Alderman usually gets ahead of the Captain, as he did on Wednesday morning. The Star saying he took a sleigh ride with his horse and cutter.

A team attached to a wagon laden with apples and cider became frightened about noon Wednesday on Clinton avenue in Albany. The team belonged to J. P. Cronan, of Guilford. Near Swan street one of the horses struck a tree and so injured himself that he died about twenty minutes. The wagon was also badly broken and the driver injured.

Frederick Rollwagen, of New York, died of very little purpose, a few months ago, his three sons think, for he left his one or two million dollars in such a way that the low servant girl he married could live on the income on the property, while not a dollar's worth of the real estate could be sold until the youngest grandson is dead. The boys have asked the Surrogate Court to say that the old man was crazy when he made the will.

The Troy Press says: Monday afternoon, when one of Lloyd & Murray's barges arrived from New York, a canal boat was fast to the dock and the barge and not land. Mr. Murray requested the captain to move out of the way and be refused. Mr. Murray then proceeded to loosen the ropes, when the captain struck him a blow that felled him. A warrant was obtained and placed in the hands of court officer Curran, but when he arrived at the dock the man was gone. He followed him to Albany, but when the officer arrived there the boat had passed and the nautical escape.

AN INTERESTING ULSTER COUNTY LAW SUIT.

"She Loved Not Wisely but Too Well." Damages Ten Thousand Dollars!

In that romantic region of the country where the mountains raise their heads above the clouds—in that part of Woodstock known by the somewhat practical name of Bearsville, lives a young lady who for the past few years had the reputation of being the handsomest woman in that part of the county. She is a dark brunette, of medium stature, with lustrous black eyes, hair as dark as a starless night, aristocratic hands and feet, and besides is intelligent, well educated, and has a most fascinating address. Being of good family, and with considerable respect throughout the county, she quite naturally was acknowledged the belle of the place, and scores of young men from different parts of the country came and knelt at the shrine of beauty, laying their hearts and fortunes at her feet. This lady was no coquette; her heart was too warm and pure for mercenary motives, and besides she had long before placed her affections on one from whom she loved and who had been her companion almost since childhood's days. They had been playmates at school; had grown up together beneath the shadows of those old mountains, and their grim peaks seemed to look down and approve their love. Time passed on until in July, 1872, when a formal engagement was made between the two, and a day appointed for the marriage. Great preparations were made, and money was used with a lavish hand to make the wedding the most brilliant and imposing ever known in Ulster county. Friends and relatives were invited, while a minister from a foreign city was engaged at great expense to perform the ceremony. During these months of preparation the young man being assisted by the parents, lived in the light of a son-in-law was allowed to be very intimate in the family. But alas, for human frailty, man's fickleness and pascality; when the wedding day came the youth refused to ratify the engagement. We need not dwell upon the harrowing scene that took place; the tears and pleading of the bride; the anger of the girl's parents, and the constancy of her friends. The world knows this better than pen can describe it. Even then the girl's misery was not complete. It seemed that she must be made to drink to the very dregs the cup of bitterness, for

"She loved not wisely but too well."

Her delicate condition soon became known. This, which in the shape of a human being, had not only won her affection, but under the garb and guise of a well-favored lover, had also robbed her of her virtue. For a time the excitement was great in the land of Bearsville, and it was thought the people would take the law in their own hands and punish this ruthless destroyer as he deserved to be punished. But the great goodness of the community was not so easily won, and it was thought best to probe the young man through his pocket-book and by way of heavy damages punish him more than could be done by arrest or imprisonment. Then a precept was issued out of the Supreme Court in the name of Sarah P. Bonstedt, Ex parte Lasher, in which the little sum of four hundred dollars was ordered to be paid to the young man, and will no doubt be a most instructive case to our young men, and an exceedingly interesting one to the married men. Strange as it may seem, the child was not signified because of the continual weeping of the mother after the death of her lover. This pledge of affection, a bright, handsome little girl, will be brought into, and if the sight of that unfortunate wife does not melt the hearts of a jury of our countrymen, then we will forever lose faith in the better nature of man. The attorneys in the case are Van Allen & Clearwater for plaintiff, and T. R. & F. L. Westbrook for defendant.

Towns.

The following were yesterday's towns: Steamer A. B. Valentine—Saw No. 25; barge Roslyn; boats Union, Fred Barnard, F. S. Moore, Gratitudine, Hoffman, Sandy, Spaulding to New York.

Steamer Columbia—Boats Chas. A. Bradley, Late and Early, Charles French, 7 Penn. Coal Co. boats, 4 D. & H. Canal Co. boats to Hudson.

Up town from New York: Boats Bluestone, F. W. Stevens, Industry, O. O. Bowman to Foughkeepsie, Lizzie and A. J. C. Kirkpatrick to Hudson; schooner A. G. Bryant to Rondout, Bedabedec to Clinton Point; D. & H. C. Co's boats, boat Anna Rebecca from New Concord to Hudson, boat 1379 from Hastings.

Beware of Them.

Swindlers of both sexes are said to be passing their time in various towns in this vicinity, collecting money under pretence of the subscription being in aid of the sufferers from yellow fever in Memphis and Shreveport. Don't give a stranger the cash or anything unless it is a whimper over the scene with a club.

THE MOUNTAIN MAN.

A Mysterious Character in Shandaken. About twelve years ago there came into the town of Shandaken a man calling himself Sidney Flint, and among the townspeople, is remembered and spoken of as the "Mountain Man." From whence he came no one knew, nor was there anything definite learned as to his former history or his purpose in taking up his abode in Shandaken. He was accompanied by a woman and a little girl. This girl called the man uncle, and the woman mother.

He brought with him a span of horses and a wagon in which was stowed a quantity of household goods, some farming implements and a large tent. This tent he pitched in the wilderness in the vicinity of a mountain peak that stands on the west bank of the Esopus creek, about one mile above the Big Indian station, and about half that distance back from the creek. To the rear and westward of this mountain is an elevated plateau or high table-land still covered with the primeval forest. In seeking a place to pitch his tent, he went well back into this forest, where the probabilities of his being annoyed by frequent hunters still lagged deep in the ground, and living in a tent could not have been otherwise than uncomfortable, especially to the woman and child. But no complaints were heard relative to that or any other discomfort connected with a residence in such a wild secluded place.

The man would come out of the woods occasionally for the purpose of purchasing supplies, for which he always paid cash, of which he was very liberal. He seemed to have an unlimited amount. At intervals he would leave home for periods of two or three weeks at a time, going no one knew whither, and returning in a quiet, stealthy manner, as if anxious to evade all observation. Once returning from a somewhat more protracted absence than usual, he brought with him several dollars in money, all in one five-dollar bank bill. This money he showed to a gentleman residing at the time up the Big Indian valley, and who, by the way, was the only person he was ever at all intimate with during his stay in the place. He, with the woman and child, occupied the tent until the next autumn, when a small log-house was erected into which they moved, and which they occupied during the remainder of their stay in the woods. The man spent his time when at home in clearing land, setting out fruit trees, and making other improvements about his cabin. But it was the universal belief of the people of the vicinity, that he had some secret and more important business than making a diminutive clearing, and a log-house, and that he was engaged in some mysterious and important business. He was apparently a man of cultivated intellect and unused to manual toil. Many believed that he was employed in manufacturing spurious money; others that he was engaged in searching after metals, while others claimed that he took up his residence in the woods on account of his health. But so mysterious was his life, and so mysterious his movements, that none of these conjectures were ever verified. After the lapse of a period of about two years from the time of his coming into the town, he suddenly and without previous notice broke up housekeeping, gave away the most of his personal effects, and left in the same quiet and mysterious manner that characterized all his movements. He was never seen again, nor have any tidings ever been received from him since his departure. The ruins of his cabin high up among the mighty mountain peaks, surrounded on all sides by the dark, umbrageous forest, are all that remain to remind the people of Shandaken of that mysterious personage—the "Mountain Man."

Washington Hall Last Night and To-night.

The entertainment of Prof. Harry Ball and Signor Brignati at Washington Hall last evening, though not as largely attended as its excellence deserved, passed off most successfully. The performance of the Professor and Signor Brignati was very good. The principal prize of the evening was a barrel of flour, drawn by C. Burke. Two more entertainments will be given—to-night and to-morrow
